Dear Mary, (Cary)

I think it an urgent necessity that we prepare, as best we can, to prevent such needless defeats as in court yesterday.

There is a way in which you can help. I've made this request a number of times, without usefulness, of those you can guess.

In the various government responses in my suits and Nichols', they cite certain decisions. I am confident that in at least some cases they mis-cite them. In any even, we (I) should understand them.

You work in a law office. Can you go over the various papers I've sent you and Nichols', which I presume you have, and xerox these decisions from your library at work? If you can do this and it is not too much to ask, two copies would enable me to keep a file copy and have to circulate among others who, I hope, Ill also file suits. I am in touch with one. I've been nudging Paul. There are other possibilities.

Best,
